I as the current ward member for Priory Ward have the following comments to make. I wholeheartedly see the sense of extending the ward to the south and east. I would be very wary of removing Wells-Next-The-Sea and Holkham- the jewel in the wards crown. These surrounding villages are the satelites of Wells, the land is the same and the people are part of a shared collective of this unique landscape and way of life. The locals have a very strong affinity with their nearest town and im certain would cause an amount of upset. It therefore would make little sense to split them up. A reduction from a twin seat ward to just one member is possible to achieve in my view.Keeping Wells and Holkham on North Norfolks books and together in the ward is sustainable. We are a wealthy authority, with impressive reserves and would reduce the current costs through reducing the number of members and through the proposed geographical expansion to the south and east. We have recently discontinued the chief executive role at the District Council to a job share between our corporate directors offering a considerable saving.Thankyou.
