I think overall the proposals are sensible for the South Bucks area but I do object to Gerrards Cross being one of the few places where town and parish boundaries have not been respected. While the problem of Gerrards Cross East falling under the Denham ward previously has now been resolved, a new problem has been created with the creation of the Gerrards Cross Station ward which will be represented by councillors predominantly representing Chalfont St Peter. This will cause confusion for residents and make it harder for bodies to be sure they are contacting the right representatives. It will also unnecessarily create a new ward for town council purposes adding to administration. There are places beyond the Gerrards Cross town boundary that assume they are in the town (e.g. Maltmans Green School, GX Tennis Club, Thorpe House School), so this proposal actually get things the wrong way around by taking a central part of Gerrards Cross town and making it be represented by councillors who will be assumed to be Chalfont St Peter councillors. I would urge the commission to make the necessary change to reverse this and look at alternative ways to make the numbers work.
