It's not clear from the consultation data what led Epsom & Ewell council to require a review. The loss of councillors at a time when the electorate is estimated to increase from the current 59262 to an estimated 64889 is not likely to improve residents access to councillor support plus the merging of wards provides no benefit especially if polling stations are removed. I also think residents should have been notified of this significant change in a way that would have grabbed their attention. I only noticed this news today, 5 July from a small leaflet pinned to a bus stop in Epsom. Why was nothing put through our doors? This consultation was launched on the 11 May how many replies have been received? My neighbours were also unaware of the consultation. I don't agree to this at all.
