

I would like to see Seven Dials and the surrounding area (including Prestonville, BHASVIC and west to Silverdale Avenue, south to Western Road, including Powis Square, and east to Brighton railway station) included within one ward. This is a vibrant part of Brighton that already sees itself as a community, but whose representation is currently split among 4-5 wards. The Dials itself is a focus point for our community and the new ward boundaries should recognise that, rather than using the roads leading into Seven Dials as a convenient, unnatural demarcation.
