The Local Government Boundary Commission is the independent body that draws these boundaries. It has reviewed Blaby to make sure councillors will represent about the same number of electors, and that ward arrangements will help the council work effectively.

The Commission has published final recommendations for changes in Blaby. It says residents should be represented by 36 councillors. This is three fewer than there are currently.

There will be 17 wards, one fewer than there are now representing one single-councillor ward, 13 two-councillor wards and three three-councillor wards. The boundaries of 15 wards should change; three will stay the same.

Publishing the recommendations Professor Colin Mellors, Chair of the Commission, said:

"We are very grateful to people in Blaby. We looked at all the views they gave us. They helped us improve our earlier proposals.

"We believe the new arrangements will guarantee electoral fairness while maintaining local ties."

37 people and organisations made comments to help decide the new wards. Changes in response to what local people said include:

Renaming Meridan Thorpe Astley ward as Thorpe Astley & St Mary's.

The Commission has made further changes to its earlier proposals. Details can be found on its website at https://www.lgbce.org.uk/all-reviews/east-midlands/leicestershire/blaby.

Parliament now needs to agree the changes. The new arrangements will then apply for the 2023 council elections.

for local authorities in England. In doing so, it aims to:

- Make sure that, within an authority, each councillor represents a similar number of electors
- Create boundaries that are appropriate, and reflect community ties and identities
- Deliver reviews informed by local needs, views and circumstances
