I oppose the merging of Brunswick and Adelaide into the Regency ward, my main objections being: Brighton and Hove, despite their conjoined names, have always been separate in my lifetime. Creating this enlarged ward would erode the legacy of Hove as a separate entity even further. We have active residential groups and a strong sense of local identity here in Brunswick. This sense of community is at odds with the larger Regency ward, as the area around the pier is largely touristed and business based, not residential like us. I believe our interests are at odds, not shared. I feel proud to live in Brunswick Town. The sense of history is to be treasured and supported, not diluted by amalgamating us elsewhere.
