It seems that the poorer areas [ie M'coombe & East Brighton] have been separated out from the rest of the city, which i feel will increase marginalisation of these areas. East Brighton in particular is loosing the part of Kemptown that was previously in the ward and also being reduced to 2 councillors. The population of the ward is reduced and the impact that the cllrs can have will also be reduced. i think the wards need to have a mixed demographic, which i do not feel is reflected in these new areas. East Brighton is very run down and rubbish strewn at the moment and i do not think these proposals will increase the opportunities for the residents to have their say.
