I object to the splitting of Patcham - half to Westdene and half to Hollingbury. It effectively erases Patcham as a unified community. It will adversely affect services if each half has different representation. I object to the fact that I live in Patcham but am no longer classed as Patcham by the boundary change. Patcham is a community that should remain intact not split. It works fine as it is currently - it's a pointless boundary change - this is gerrymandering for political gain and is unacceptable.
