Comment text:

I totally object to this new ward proposal for Patcham. Its a really Mad hair brain idea to split a historic community down it centre, you may as well be ripping a heart out of the community! Community amenities will then be under a different ward, making this once united community disjointed. It would be better to join westdean & withdean that are both on the same side of the main London road. The same bus route servers both these communities. If this proposal goes head this will destroy Patcham and its place in history as one community! This proposal makes no sense.
