The Mackie/Ladies Mile Estate, Patcham Village, Patcham Infants, Juniors and High School, Patcham Library, Patcham Methodist Church, Patcham Nursing Home are all in Patcham. Why would you literally draw a line through the middle and split the community in two? Half going to Westdene ward and half to Hollingbury ward, being the minority in these wards would mean that Patcham would have no representation as a community. It doesn't make sense to divide Patcham and completely deprive it of it's identity as a Community. I've lived in Patcham for 30 years, got married in and had my children Christened in All Saints Church in Patcham Village and my children attended all three Patcham Schools. Under the proposal all of these would be moved to a different ward. On a map, someone that doesn't know the area may think that Mackie Avenue and Carden Avenue are close together. They are not, there is no connecting road and to drive from one to the other you would have to leave the ward under these proposals. These are separate areas with their own identities and issues. Please do not make this drastic change that would destroy a thriving community.
