I strongly oppose splitting Patcham in half and placing it in different wards. This makes no sense. There is a strong community spirit in Patcham. People in Patcham don't identify with living in "Hollingbury" or "Carden". Your own guidance states the following..... "interests and identities, and boundaries should be identifiable. Consider transport links, community groups and facilities, natural or physical boundaries, parishes and shared interests." This guidance seems to have been completely ignored. The ONLY factor seems to be the number of people in each ward. If you split Queen's Park in half or Kemptown in half those residents would not accept it and people in Patcham should not and do not accept it either. People in Patcham deserve to be represented by the same Councillors rather than a line drawn right down the middle.
