We strongly object to the proposed boundary changes for Patcham. We chose to specifically live in the Patcham ward and are active in our community. We understand that the proposal would mean that our road would actually be split in 2 with the school on one side of the road being in one ward and the houses on the other side of the road, including ours, being in a separate one. This seems unnecessarily divisive and makes no sense - what exactly is the objective here? I can see no benefit to us as residents from this proposal, in fact quite the reverse with a potential of devaluation of our house prices. Would our band assignment for Council Tax purposes also be reviewed? As I say, we are very much opposed to this proposal.
