I don't think you need a separate Councillor for Patcham and hollingbury, they are one community, we share the same roads etc we would want to be represented by someone who has best interests, splitting Patcham in half splits up the local people . There are other ways to rationalise votes and get the proportion of votes right without making up new wards. I hate that Patcham votes tory but I wouldn't see any benefit from this. You are putting the wealthy of Patcham and westdene together knowing full well that hollingbury has more families living in poverty therefore causing segregation that already exists. You will create a slum, hollingbury is already less wealthy with more socio economic issues so please leave Patcham and hollingbury together as it was and find alternative for managing the population of voters
