Comment text:

One of the longest lasting "boundaries" in the Stratford District has been the Church of England parish of "South West Seven". There is a very strong link between the inhabitants of these 7 parishes in terms of sharing and supporting resources, co-ordinating public events and having an identity. It would be so nice if the reorganisation were to recognise this very longstanding group of 7 villages even if this means a slight distortion of numbers of inhabitants being represented by a councillor. It will be a shame if the extension of Shipton South to the south west cuts Barcheston & Willington from its centuries old inclusion in South west Seven.
