Currently Elsdon is part of Rothbury but on its extreme edge. Rothbury is already too big for a single council area and about to get bigger. To me, it would make far more sense to align Elsdon with either Otterburn or Bellingham. It is much nearer to these latter two and possibly also has more of an affinity with them. It shares more of their facilities than Rothbury. Currently Elsdon is just a forgotten outpost of Rothbury, a much larger village with its own distinct identity.
