The idea to align our little village with Wexham and Farnham is ridiculous. We are a very small community that lies beside Gerrards Cross and that is where our allegiance lies. Firstly, our church is aligned with the Gerrards Cross St. James's Church. Secondly, myself and my neighbours included, do the majority of our shopping in Gerrards Cross, whether be it Tesco's or Waitrose. I take my yoga classes in GX, my optician is in GX, my go to place for everything is GX. I seldom travel to Farnham Common or Royal not Wexham for anything. It just seems diabolical that you will lump our little village with two other areas where the majority of residents in Fulmer have nothing in common with.
