Comment text:

Your proposals for Southborough and High Brooms do not make logical sense. In our community sense of place is very important. The notion of dividing parished areas is completely illogical and makes bureaucracy look bad. Southborough, with High Brooms, is a distinct community. It is not part of the town of Tunbridge Wells. It is a community, a town, that has existed for many centuries. The warding arrangements should reflect this, High Brooms should not be lumped in with a ward to the north of Tunbridge Wells. To suggest that people in High Brooms don't know, or don't care, where they live is frankly offensive. There should be a line drawn around the town of Tunbridge Wells and the rest sorted out from there.
