I note the boundary commissions decisions on Rossendale which I have no objections too.

However I wish to point out that this will change the Parlimentary boundaries in statute which are currently proposed to remain as Hyndburn plus Worsley and Greenfield.

I believe the polling stations are almost identical. Therefore with the Commission choosing to create Haslingden South and North that the new Hyndburn seat will need to be Haslingden North and HW2 and HW3 polling stations.

Haslindgen South stretches to Bury and would cut the constituency of Rossendale and Darwen in half.

The parliamentary boundaries become law on the 1 July. The Rossendale become law on the 1 August so whilst not challenging, needs assumption.

Thanks
