I hope I can speak in a very helpful way about the new proposals regarding the Brixworth Ward. In general, the villages are quite supportive of the one member/ three separate ward. it does make sense in term of geography, history and issues in the ward. Brixworth as a ward is perfect and the two Naseby and East Farndon Walgrave make sense when discussing the split. The only comments were about the names... Naseby seems obvious even if some of the other villages as Welford, Guilsborough might feel hurt.... but everyone in England should know where Naseby is. The other name East Farndon/Walgrave was thought to be cumbersome. So i ask for suggestions and the one receive was Faxton Ward. Faxton being a lost village between Lamport and Maidwell and also the name the church of England has given to a group of seven parishes under one vicar. So Great Oxendon, Arthingworth, Hanging Houghton, Lamport, Draughton and East Farndon are already familiarised with this name. And also it goes with our history theme Naseby and Faxton.

Finally, thank you for the choice you made for the part of Northamptonshire.
Cllr Irving-Swift
