Just at the last minute – it appears - and with only a short time to respond (8 May) the Local Government Boundary Commission have sprung on Surrey Residents nothing less than an Electoral Review. It looks as though they are trying to rush it through.

They are asking a number of weighty questions which we all ought to have time to discuss. (e.g. 'Which areas do you identify as your local community? Do you have suggestions about where your division boundaries should be?')
At the very least the Commission should put back the 'finish' date by a couple of months to let us have mature debate on the important issues involved.

PS Just on a point of detail I would certainly want to make representations about my locality (Ashford) where we have one division simply called 'Ashford' and another including the words 'Ashford West'.
