Related subject: Runnymede / Woking boundary along Basingstoke Canal

The boundary between Runnymede and Woking between Sherwater Road and the Eastern end of the Basingstoke Canal runs slightly South of the Canal, splitting the wooded area in two. It would make more sense to move the boundary to the canal, making the whole area South of it part of Woking to have clear accountabilities for the whole area.

In addition, the boundary East of Shearwater Road between Woodham Lane and the Basingstoke Canal feels a bit random - would make more sense to run along Shearwater road.
