Hello LGBCE

I live in Prudhoe and object to the proposed change that Humbles Wood and Cottier Grange should become part of Stocksfield. The boundary makes no sense geographically. No one would ever describe the location or say that Humbles Wood or Cottier Grange is part of Stocksfield. If it's not a political move then the boundary should have the existing boundary line, including the countryside as part of Prudhoe. Prudhoe is known as semi rural, has far reaching views of the Tyne valley and has an identity that is bigger than the heavily populated areas that you have earmarked on your new proposals.

Regards
