Oxshott is a strong community that has great history and a focal point in its high street. Dividing it in two cannot recognise the community that exists there and would be in contravention of the LGBCE whose purpose should be to maintain that sense of community.

A better solution would be to finally build the link road from the A243 to the A3 to allow errant motorway traffic to bypass Oxshott and remove the artificial division the village suffers increasingly as motorway traffic (and therefore holdups) increase year by year.
