Related subject: Long Ditton

I disagree with the proposal to join Long Ditton with Hinchley Wood and tear it apart from Thames Ditton. The Dittons is a community. We live at the far side of Long Ditton but frequently use the library and community centre. These are named after Thames Ditton but we consider them to be in our community. The two communities complement each other. Long Ditton has a recreation ground and green space at one tree hill used by both communities, Thames Ditton has a post office and a selection of coffee shops used by both communities. Living in The Dittons is an identity that the residents value. Please don't draw a line that divides communities. It never works in the long term.
