Related subject: STEELS LANE in OXSHOTT

Basis of my disagreement is both simple and easy to comprehend. There may be a compelling reason to cut a village in half (Oxshott) but it does not seem to be readily apparent. To have just one authority responsible for the village would seem eminently more sensible, to avoid what could otherwise become-literally-divide and rule. I should like to see Oxshott being the responsibility of just one authority so that accountability is clear and unequivocal.
