I wish to object to the proposals of LGBCE relating to the village of Oxshott.

My understanding is that Oxshott would be split into two parts either side of the High St (A244) One half included in Cobham, the other half in Esher and Claygate.

Apparently the name of Oxshott would not even get a mention!

I have lived in Oxshott for over 40 years, it is a community in its own right surrounded by Green Belt, not part of an urban sprawl.

We have our own infrastructure including railway station, schools, shops, two public houses and a medical centre.

I find it difficult to believe that anyone would think it is a good idea to carve up a village in this way and throw away its identity.

I earnestly request that LGBCE reconsider these proposals and retain the existing boundaries so that Oxshott remains part of the Hinchley Wood Claygate and Oxshott ward
