The idea to split the boundary down the A244 in effect splits the community of Oxshott into two different areas. This will have the effect of no-one owning responsibility for the repair and maintenance of the A244. It will also literally divide the community with one side being looked at by Cobham and the other side by Esher and Claygate. This will inevitably lead to division. Also, the idea of deleting the name "Oxshott" is a derisory action towards the population living in Oxshott. Therefore this is a totally unnecessary and unhelpful and hurtful proposal that I hope gets cancelled.
