We don't see any benefit in our community of Hurst being part of much wider area to make up the number of electors. Hurst and Ruscombe are 2 very rural parishes, unlike Twyford is a small town. Removing the small section of South Twyford makes sense, combining Hurst with Ruscombe makes sense Hurst is the largest parish in Wokingham with its own distinct identity, joining with Twyford will dilute the relationship our Councillor has with the community. Hurst is mainly agricultural with 3 settlements, all with their own requirements, Much different from those of large housing settlements like Twyford. This exercise is ignoring communities just to fit the requirements of 3 councillor wards I would ask you to take into account these points, engaging residents is difficult enough without splitting communities this approach from a council (political administration) point of view is being driven by politics not the views of our residents
