I object to the change of the boundary on two counts. 1. The constituency is named Beaconsfield, which is an ancient and established community. Splitting half of Beaconsfield to move it to Amersham does not make sense either from a community or a historical sense. This change doesn't seem to make much sense and appears to be politically motivated. 2. This change gives every appearance of being politically motivated and demonstrates the corruption of local politics. By removing much of the population of Beaconsfield it supports the desire of local landowners to build on the greenbelt. Over the past few years, the Conservative party has been torn apart by the challenges from the attempt to bypass planning laws and legislation protecting the greenbelt. The attempt failed but further attempts continue. By removing much of the Beaconsfield population from the constituency, the motivation is clear. The desire is to use boundary changes to go against the will of the community and go against the legislation. I am saddened to see the process of boundary review be hijacked by blatant politics. This change makes no sense and brings the entire process into disrepute. This proposed change should not proceed.
