Utterly unnecessary to have so many councillors . Bucks population around 540,000. With 98 councillors you are stating that a councillor can only"look after" 5,500 people or around 1800-2000 families . Complete nonsense. Surely it is reasonable to have a minimum of 1 councillor per 10,000 residents so 54 councillors max! Personally O would support fewer. The expense and upheaval of becoming a unitary authority was to save money - unnecessary councillors are an expensive unnecessary cost to council tax payers. Once you have reduced the numbers then it is reasonable to look at wards
