Great idea to reduce the number of councillors. Ideally the boundaries would be drawn to ensure there is a balance of voting patterns/views in each ward. So seats covering urban and rural areas, wealthy/less wealthy households, those single/with children/those retired. I'm assuming this can be done by 2021 census data. We need all local councillors to have to fight for their seats across the widest demographic possible and represent local views rather than simply reflect parliamentary voting patterns where we got old stale councillors with long tenures.
