I am speak firstly about the four Cannock Wards; CE, CN, CS,CW. I believe that they are just about correct. Over the last 10 years, CS has replaced CW as the largest ward per head of population and will continue to do so with the building requirements in the current plan. However, I can see no reason to change the make up of these wards. Hednesford and Rawnsley, I believe has too many councillors for its population and could be looked at. However, Hednesford GreenHeath is still developing and might need reviewing. It is currently a two seat Ward and it might need an additional Councillor. I will not mention Rugeley as I have little to do with the Town, it really is self contained. I believe Cannock Chase District is a compact area, it has 1 MP and does not spread into another District/Borough, so should remain as it is,
