I am replying on behalf of Charvil Parish Council. We understand that the idea is to move to three member wards, so that essentially Charvil will need to share borough councillors with neighbouring areas as it is currently a single ward. The Council would be happier to be put with other wards of similar size, so that its voice remains heard - as one of the youngest Civil Parishes in the Borough, there is a fear that if matched with Twyford, it would be regarded as part of "Greater Twyford" rather than an entity in its own right. Consequently, the preference would be to share councillors with Sonning and either Hurst or Wargrave, although we appreciate Wargrave is currently paired with Remenham and Ruscombe, and they may like to continue that relationship. The Parish Council also has concerns about being paired with any parts of Woodley, as they are far more urban in nature.
