Comment text:

I live in Coppenhall and the village is, in effect, integrated with Hyde Lea. The ecclesiastical parish encompasses all of Dunston, Coppenhall, Hyde Lea and Butterhill. Coppenhall and Hyde Lea share a village hall (Hyde Lea and Coppenhall Village Hall) which is situated in Hyde Lea but Hyde Lea people attend Coppenhall Church. Both these villages use the village hall in equal amounts and the Church (which helped to fund the original purchase of the Village Hall) uses it frequently. It would make much better logic for the South Staffordshire boundary to be moved northwards to the M6 motorway and for the parish of Hyde Lea to merge with the parish of Dunston with Coppenhall. Most residents agree that for Coppenhall and Hyde Lea to be, not only in two different wards, but in two separate district council areas.
