Comment text:

Although this review is concentrating on the wards, the electoral boundaries in Bracknell are very disjointed. Currently The northern ward councillors which number about 9 or so come under the aegis of the MP in Windsor yet the southern wards, where there is a larger majority of councillors, come under the Bracknell MP. This means that when there are controversial decisions affecting the northern parishes, the councillors for those wards can easily be out-voted by the councillors in the south of the Borough and are powerless to act effectively. It makes the political makeup very unbalanced.
