Comment text:

Making The Ivers 500+ residents larger by including an area such as New Denham with which we have nothing in common and can't even reach without going outside of the area (split by the M25) isn't that constructive, helpful to either set of residents or easy to properly manage. This just seems to be a 'numbers game' having reached the bottom part of the County and found the numbers don't quite match. I can't see that New Denham residents will be anything other than disappointed to be represented by Cllrs that don't know the area or the issues.
