I don't think joining Halton with the Lower Lune Valley is a good idea. The 2 areas are separated by the large River Lune, Halton is in the Morecambe Council side and Lower Lune Valley is in the Lancaster City Council area. The Lower Lune Valley is already a very large area geographically, to make it even bigger by joining it to Halton I feel would not be in either's best interests. It would also make it a 3 councillor ward, it would be good to have smaller wards not large ones. If Halton could be joined in with Kellet ward, this is a one councillor ward and would work better, there are better connections between the 2 wards, no large River dividing them. Buses also run from Carnforth through Over and Neather Kellets to Halton. The doctors surgery in Halton is a branch of Ash trees surgery in Carnforth. The doctors in Lower Lune Valley don't cross the river to Halton. So Halton's connection is closer to the Kellet Ward.
