Comment text:

I would like to endorse the original proposal by the former Bucks County Council and the letter from Buckinghamshire Business First of about 98 Bucks councillors. Some of the arguments in the new proposal from Bucks Council for 120 concillors appear to be one offs on which the existing 147 councillors should already have made significant progress, others such as having 11 members on each committee or even more to cover conflicts of interest/political party seem designed to make committees unwieldy and padded.
