Based on current phase of consultation - how many councillors are needed. I would suggest no more than 98 (ie 2 per current council ward). Aware county council was 49 (1 per ward), but as a unitary, am conscious there are extra areas of responsibility or issues that may come up from residents. Depending on how wards are arranged, 80 may be appropriate, but certainly wouldn't want to go lower than that, and not more than 100..... Need councillors to actually take responsibility in there areas, and having too many (as at present), effectively allows some councillors to get voted in, then duck out of doing any work by palming off on the other 2 representatives for their ward.
