I live in Flixton ward M41 [REDACTED] but postal address is Urmston, which can be confusing...not sure why this is, and whether it would help to align them! For example, you might think from the postcode that the catchment school is Urmston primary but in fact it is Flixton primary. However, other than the semantics involved in this, I don't have a strong view on the boundaries. My sense of community is probably more affiliated to being part of Urmston more than Flixton but as I'm on the border it doesn't hugely matter.
