I'm responding to your public consultation to say ... you shouldn't be having a public consultation! This entire exercise should be outsourced to an independent statistician who can apply a fair and impartial algorithm to local demographic data and draw up the boundaries free of any political or ideological influence. If you take any other approach and invite subjective opinions, the inevitable outcome will be people complaining that it's been gerrymandered, or that Such-and-Such Street really belongs in Whatever Ward. This consultation is creating the problem, not solving it.
