Regarding the Gravesham draft proposals I feel that Istead Rise being linked to Cobham is a sound rationale.. However by linking it with the lower part of Luddesdown does not make sense. It would seem more logical to extend Meopham South further west to capture this area and even out the electorate. This would make a much cleaner proposal and even the electorate numbers as Istead Rise Cobham and Luddesdown would be high at 4700. On the current proposals a concillor could have an area that takes 20 minutes to travel by car from one point to another. Thank you for reading my suggestion.
