There is no benefit in extending the boundaries, the local government is over worked and under resourced, adding more responsibilities to this group with little historical experience or understanding of a new area to cover makes no sense. Let's keep local government really local, with a team who live, work and care about the neighbourhood they serve, not asking them to take on another patch to serve. I would like to be represented by people who have a really good feel of the community they look after. Long term it would complicate decision making, this is a very poorly thought about idea.
