The live at the edge of Redbridge ward and the boundaries for Coxford, Redbridge, Shirley and Millbrook make no sense to me. They aren't separated by main roads and these wards have issues that need to be dealt with as a whole. To have councillors in Coxford that aren't on the same page as councillors that are from a different ward across the road seems crazy to me. I understand the need to break the city up into sections but I personally think fewer, larger wards with more councillors per ward and more sensible boundaries would work better.
