The changes to the Portswood ward does not make lots of sense and they are due to the increase of student built flats in Portswood. That has pushed the boundaries and proposed an association of my road with the Swaythling ward. We normally never pass by Swaythling while the association with Portswood (proximity, usual visits and use of services) makes me feel part an integral part of the Portswood community. The proposed boundaries also split the university campus in two which is also an interesting decision. Despite the high number of students living in the area pushing for a change in boundaries, the active participation in electing representative is still below 40% (without counting the number of international students that can't vote and still live in the area), which is quite shocking.
