Comment text:

I have no problems with the number of wards, or the boundaries. I do have a problem with the total number of councillors. 3 councillors per ward is too many, when a cabinet of 9 makes the decisions. Either change back to a system where ALL councillors make the decisions, or make it 1 councillor per ward. If the present cabinet system continues then it doesn't matter whether ward boundaries are changed or not, as the voters won't get any say in how things are run. I would therefore say abandon this pointless exercise.
