Comment text:

A Borough with the size and population of Brentwood does not require 39 councillors, in my opinion. I have served as a local councillor for a total of 8 years in both Brentwood North and Hutton Central wards, and so I know first hand how the mechanics of local government operate. Some wards have had three councillors, simply no need. We should be reducing the cost of local democracy, and to have 39 local councillors is unnecessary, not to mention poor value for money for local taxpayers once expenses' costs are factored in. Upwards of £250k per financial year is indefensible at a time of pressure on front line services and budget cuts elsewhere.
