As a [REDACTED] resident, I am surprised at potentially being put into John O'Gaunt. My family and I would never head into Primrose or further up for anything unless visiting friends. All amenities we use are in town, from groceries to the post office. Furthermore, we feel more aligned to the castle ward, which has a lot of parking permit whereas John O'Gaunt does not have this issue as a common pressure point. This is particularly pertinent at the moment with a movement towards electric vehicles and charging points - our voices would not be aligned in John O'Gaunt compared to the castle ward.
