I think changing the wards is an awful idea. It looks to someone living in one of the wards being changed like the existing councillors want rid of the less engaging areas. Areas that need people the most. It's clear this has been put forward so that councillors in better areas have less contact with the less desirable. It's a bad idea, the wards work just fine as they are, we'll they would if the local councillors cared as much for the whole ward as they do for certain areas
