My comments are about the Buckthorne Crescent area proposed to be moved into Roseworth Ward. Firstly I would agree it is not a good fit with the Northern Parishes. However, it is a relatively new development and does not have traditional links with the main part of Roseworth and interaction with this is limited. You could stand at the Junction Road and Blakeston Lane/Ragpath Lane crossroads on any day at any time and observe very little traffic goes straight across from Blakeston Lane to Ragpath Lane - it all turns either right or left. In many ways the area has most in common with the proposed Norton North Ward and this ward has a voter deficiency whereas Roseworth has a surplus, however all the access roads are through Roseworth. I guess although not ideal, incorporation into the Roseworth Ward does make most sense and the Buckthorne Crescent area will probably have quite a lot in common with the new housing being built on the old Blakeston School site just south of the railway.
